The Services supplied are subject to the General Conditions of Sale of these suppliers and their responsibility is limited to the rates, conditions of transportation, tickets, vouchers and applicable agreements.

HYDRAVION AVENTURE may not be held responsible for any fault occurring with the booking or arrival of clients at the departure point for their flight, or at the location at which their planned itinerary begins, whether occasioned by a delay in flights, rail or ground services, even though it be the result of force majeure, accident or caused by a third party.

Any written or verbal contract concerning the activities or services is presumed to have been concluded between the client and the supplier in question and is at the risk and peril of the client with respect to any loss, damage or injury incurred during the course of the activity or service. HYDRAVION AVENTURE may not be held responsible in any way whatsoever for any complaint or claim arising from the client's participation in these activities or services, these being offered by a third party over whom HYDRAVION AVENTURE has no authority.
